

Services Designed for Optimal Results

When acute or chronic cardiac conditions compromise a patient's functionality and comfort, we offer specialized cardiac programming geared toward recovery. We strive to restore each patient to the highest level of conditioning possible while continuing to implement therapies that will preserve wellness over time.

The Post-Acute services offered at Lexington provide a comfortable, healing environment, ideal for individuals who develop an acute illness, need assistance in managing a chronic condition, require specialized care after surgery or an injury or need short-term rehabilitation. We're not only able to address isolated illnesses, but also related health issues that may evolve or are due to systemic overlap. Our multi-disciplinary approach and integrated care model affords patients comprehensive assessments, care strategies and a team of healthcare professionals always at your side.
